

• personal:

1963, born the 9. 2. to Heinz Jürgen and Uta Berger – both booksellers at the time. Father became publisher, mother a teacher.

1969 – '82, attended grammar and high school in Göttingen and Bad Sachsa until graduation.

1983 – '84, fulfilled community service in a therapeutic children's home, then until ca. 1987 did several internships in photographic studios.

1987 – '90, extended stay in the Middle East with various occupations, including film work.

• education & skills: *)

1996: entered Göttingen's Georg August university to pursue studies in social sciences and journalism, but changed to linguistics 2 years later.

1998 - 2004: studies of English and German. Majoring in English was in part founded on my experiences abroad. I left university with a Master of Arts (MA) degree.

During my studies I also began to get closely involved with working on a PC, including most applications for text, image and Internet editing.

2005: from January through April did an editorial office internship, taking care of online-presentations. Prior to this I had attended a basic seminar on web design.

Nov. '05 - April '06: I attended an advanced 6-months training on 'Content Management Systems'. Concluding this measure followed a 7 weeks internship at the municipal PR department, where I maintained the city's internet appearance.

This engagement lead to a continued collaboration when I was able to participate in the CMS-based relaunch of the site.

Since 2005 I am working as a freelance translator in several fields of expertise. You are welcome to learn more in my profile pages.

Andreas Berger, Göttingen 2006

*) Please download and/or view my original resume that displays all of the above stated certificates and work references interactively!
(this link only works from a browser window!)